Top Careers Offered at HCC

Computer Network, Systems, and Database Administrators
Percent Growth Through 2018: 30 percent
All these professions require a bachelor’s degree or an associate’s degree with related work experience. Many of these workers begin with an associate degree in Computer Information Administrator, Computer Programming, Networking Administrator and Database Technology programs before transitioning to a bachelor’s program.

Registered Nurses (RN)
Percent Growth Through 2018: 22 percent
RN’s constitute the largest healthcare occupation with 2.6 million jobs. There are three typical educational paths one can take on the road to becoming a RN:
- A bachelor’s of science in nursing (BSN)
- An associate’s degree in nursing (AND)
Training for RN’s is rigorous but there are payoffs in being able to find a job almost anywhere geographically.

Medical Assistants
Percent Growth Through 2018: 34 percent
Medical assisting programs are offered in vocational-technical high schools, postsecondary vocational schools, and community or junior colleges. Typical programs range from: Certificates to Associate degrees.
- An associate’s degree in Office Administration (AS/AAS)
- Medical Records Transcription (ATD)
- Office Administration Specialist Certificate: Medical information
- Coder/Biller: Medical Coder
- Medical information Coder/Biller: Medical Biller

Accountants and Auditors
Percent Growth Through 2018: 22 percent
At the bare minimum a bachelor’s degree is required. However, most employers require the accountant in question to be a Certified Public Accountant (CPA). Many of the workers begin with an associate’s degree and transfer to a bachelor’s program. The field is estimated to continue growing even past 2018 due to increased number of businesses, greater scrutiny on a company’s finances, and changing tax and finance laws.

CBS News recently had career expert Dr. Laurence Shatkin on to discuss his recent book, “100 Fastest-Growing Careers”. Out of these 100, HCC offers degrees in Four out of the Top Five Careers:
